We leave Hartley at 09.15 by coach to the Museum of London, Docklands to visit the "Tunnels exhibition" and an optional 1 hour (approx) Guided walk around the docks

Docklands regeneration walk

Explore Canary Wharf and learn how the derelict West India Docks were transformed into this thriving business hub

Hertsmere House, Pontoon Bridge, Docks Archway

Cabot Square, View to Heron Quays, DLR

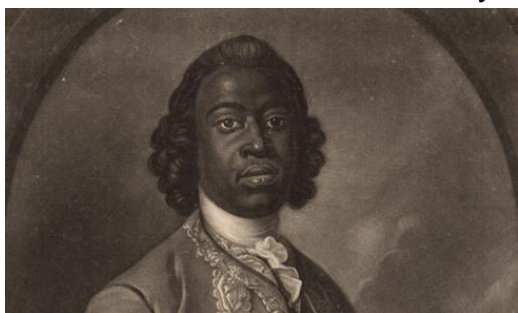

Jubilee Line, Parkland Green Spaces, Cross Rail

The most complete range of archaeological objects unearthed by Crossrail, Europe's largest infrastructure project, will go on display alongside the story of this great feat of engineering in a major new exhibition

Tunnels

The museum also has many other exhibitions and admission is free

The story of an African prince sold into slavery and his connection to one of the largest companies involved in the slave trade at the time, the Royal African Company, who shipped cloth, guns and alcohol to West Africa in exchange for enslaved Africans who were then transported to Barbados and Jamaica. The Company shipped more enslaved Africans than any other English organisation during the entire period of that trade – nearly 150,000 people

Lunch is at your own cost and there is a café on site and a host of places around Canary Wharf
The cost of this outing to include the coach and the guided walk is £25
